September	703
October	717
November	714
December	686

The membership plan is to increase the total number to 800. This can be done by the cooperation of the membership committee, members and friends of the association.

Charles R. O'Connor has accepted the chairmanship for this particular canvass, and has a strong team of workers back of him. The chairman and vice-chairman of the various teams are as follows, the vice-chairmen all being directors of the Association and having agreed to support each team:

Each paragraph shows the team number, chairman and vice-chairman.

1. Frank L. Brown, J. R. Millard.
2. John Robbins, Frank Thompson.
3. Richard Marchant, W. H. Niles.
4. Arthur Ellison, William Elting.
5. Charles Shultis, Dayton Murray.
6. W. J. Ross, A. K. Rose.
7. Charles Buchholtz, Sam Watts.
8. Harry Heard, John Matthews.
9. W. L. Smith, N. H. Fessenden.
10. Lester Finley, Louis Beers.
11. Sam. Van Kleeck, H. S. Ensign.

The various groups in the association have been growing and it is expected that there will be 32 social members, 32 gymnasium members and 50 business memberships to make the number 114, the desired goal for the campaign. The memberships will be received daily during the month and on Monday evening, January 23, a supper will be held when a report will be made of the work accomplished. Four workers will be added to each team making a total of 70 men securing members. While this is a special campaign for the senior department memberships will also be received for the boys department throughout the month.

The final get-to-gether will be on January 30. This is a good time of the year for the men to join and the committee have reasons to believe that this will be a successful canvass bringing the number in the senior department higher than it has been previously.

The ratification of the Irish peace treaty by the southern parliament was more or less of a formality.

HIGHWAY TRAFFIC IS BECOMING NORMAL

Snow Should Be Taken Away From Hydrants.

If there is a fire hydrant in front of your home or business place it should be shoveled clear of snow so that in case of afire the fire department will have no trouble in getting to the hydrant.

Those who are coming into Kingston from the rural districts state that traffic is slowly coming back to normal and that many of the county roads are now being broken open. On the state roads where traffic is heavier a fairly good road is being broken through the drifts.

LLOYD-GEORGE MEETS POINCARE

Today at Paris and Fate of Genoa Conference Depends on Talk—Doubt as to Whether They Will Agree.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

London, Jan. 14.—The fate of the economic conference at Genoa will depend upon the outcome of the conversations between Premier Lloyd-George and M. Poincare, French premier-designate at Paris, according to views advanced by British officials today.

There is a growing feeling of pessimism that the British and French premiers will be unable to agree upon plans for the economic conference.

It is understood that the two premiers would concentrate their attention upon the proposed Anglo-French treaty of alliance, but in addition they will touch upon the following other matters.

1—The future attitude of the French government on German indemnity and sanctions in the event of non-payment.

2—The guarantees France will demand from Russia for the latter's participation in the Genoa conference.

Paris, Jan. 14.—Premier Lloyd-George of England arrived today from Cannes to continue conversations with the French relative to the proposed Anglo-French treaty of alliance. These negotiations were broken off when the supreme council meeting collapsed as a result of the resignation of ex-Premier Briand and his cabinet. Arrangements were made for a meeting between Premier Lloyd-George and Raymond Poincare, who has accepted the post as French premier, at the British embassy.

PROPER LOSES PERSISTENT FIGHT TO RUN BUS LINE

Public Service Commission Decision Favors Henry Myers and Others Who Opposed Proper In His Attempt to Establish Line to Lawrenceville—Had 6 Council Hearings and Won There by 1 Vote.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Albany, Jan. 14.—The Public Service Commission under an order issued yesterday denied an application by Charles Proper for a certificate of public convenience and necessity for the operation of a bus line between Lawrenceville and Kingston, N. Y. The New York Central and the Kingston Consolidated Railroad Company opposed Proper's application.

This terminates a long drawn out battle between Proper on one side and Henry Myers and others on the other side. Myers at present operates the bus line between Rosendale and Kingston and opposed the application of Mr. Proper.

Perhaps no other application for permission to operate a bus line has ever had the attention that the Proper application had. There was a great deal of interest all along the proposed route and at each of the hearings held before the common council in the city of Kingston for permission to operate in the city large numbers of people appeared both for and against the granting of the application of Proper. In all there were six public hearings held before the aldermen at the city hall before permission was finally given by the common council. After unanimously denying the application at the first and second hearing the members of the common council gradually swung over to Proper's side until at the sixth hearing the council voted 7 to 6 for the granting of the application.

After receiving the permission of the common council application was made to the public service commmission for a certificate of public convenience and necessity by Mr. Proper. Hearings were held before Harry B. Mintz, assistant counsel, in the city of Kingston, on November 23, and December 22, 1921, at which hearings the petitioner appeared in person and by attorney, Frank W. Brooks. Amos Van Etten appearing for the New York Central Railroad Company, William D. Brinnier, Jr., for the Kingston Consolidated Railroad Company, and Van Etten & Cook, by Andrew J. Cook, for Henry Myers, in opposition to the application.

At these hearings much testimony was taken in regard to the matter and on this testimony Harry B. Mintz rendered to the commission his report recommending a denial of the application of Mr. Proper and the commission being of the opinion after due deliberation that said report should be approved and the application denied entered the following order:

"Ordered, that the application of Charles Proper, the petitioner herein, for a certificate of public convenience and necessity for the operation of a bus line between the hamlet of Lawrenceville in the town of Rosendale and the city of Kingston be and the same hereby is in all respects denied.

By the commission,

(Signed) FRANCIS E. ROBERTS, Secretary.

Throughout the proceedings Mr. Myers, who operates the bus line between Rosendale and Kingston and opposed the application of Mr. Proper, was represented by Andrew J. Cook. At the public hearings held before the common council the arguments at times became very heated, people from Rosendale, Lawrenceville, all along the route and even in Kingston showed great interest in the matter and the disposition of the case will be of wide interest both in the city and county.

NEW GAS RATE EFFECTIVE JAN. 17

The new gas rate agreed to between the common council and the Kingston Gas & Electric Company in accordance with regulations passed at the meeting of the council on December 31st, 1921, has been approved by the public service commission and by their order will become effective as of January 17th. The effect of the new rate will be a reduction of about 10 cents for the first one thousand cubic feet as compared with the present rate, and the gross price for all classes of consumption has been reduced 5 cents per thousand cubic feet. The amount of discount has been changed to 5 cents on consumptions of one thousand cubic feet or over.

Inquiry at the company's office shows that it will be necessary to read all of the consumers' meters as of January 17th so that the benefit of the new rate will be given to consumers as of that date. The average date of the customers' meter readings is about the 12th of the month and as the December reading was taken on or about the 12th of December, the bills that will be rendered for January consumption will be for about four and one-half days more than the customary period, so that bill for this month will be for a period of about thirty-four days instead of thirty days as compared with last January.

CHARITY BALL BROKE RECORDS

As To Attendance And Perhaps As To Enjoyment Afforded—Two Local Orchestras Supply Adequate Music For Big K. of C. Event.

One of the most delightful balls ever given in Kingston was held at the Armory Friday evening when the Knights of Columbus gave their Charity Ball. The crowd was a record-breaking one, and in order that all might enjoy the exceptionally fine entertainment provided every available means of seating the guests was called into requisition and then many had to stand.

Two local orchestras, Baile's and The Imperial, furnished the music of which there is much to say. To begin with, the orchestras "began" their program for the promenade concert very shortly after eight o'clock, which was fully appreciated. Then the selections were for the most part very musical, only now and then was there a weird wail suggesting the passing of "jazz." It was noteworthy throughout the evening that melody is slowly but happily coming back to favor, and the music for dancing was as much more enjoyable than formerly as were the concert numbers. Moreover the dancers seemed to find it quite as "good for dancing."

The Armory was simply but handsomely decorated. In the very center hung the banner of the "Kingston Council, Knights of Columbus," and from it radiated four long pennants of the national colors. American flags formed the remainder of the decorations. A happy innovation was the arranging of the refreshment tables against the north side of the armory, away from the draft of the opening and closing doors and near the warmth of the steam pipes. Palms screened this retreat and were used about the music platform on the same side of the drill shed. On the opposite side were the flower and cigar booths, both or which were very pretty and both of which did a flourishing business. Several little fairy-like tots with baskets of flowers readily coaxed coins out of the guests who received flowers in return.

The entertainment program, arranged by Al. King was as exceptionally high class and enjoyable as the music of the orchestras.

First there was a group of popular songs by Lou Emmell, tenor, which called forth great applause. Then Al. King, himself, delighted his huge audience with baritone solos, calling forth such aplause as to bring an encore.

Another singer who charmed his audience and graciously responded with several encores was Sir Knight Fogarty of Troy, whose rich voice and delightful rendering of some of Moore's always lovely songs were appreciated to the full.

Then there was a group of songs, instrumental solos, etc., by Josephine Le Maire and the Ragadore Five, that called forth tumultuous applause. Miss Le Maire wore a beautiful gown of emerald colored georgette and spangles and sang and led the group singing admirably.

Such dances as that of last evening are most attractive and add greatly to the popularity of our city both at home and abroad for there were many guests from out of town.

Our Composite Face.

There is great truth in the observations of James Gibbons Haneker upon his return to New York. He says: "The motley crowd marches on heedless heels. Possibly a green face might make it pause, though we doubt it; poor Baudelaire with his hair dyed green would not have a chance of recognition. Just one more nut. Every nationality except American traverses our streets. Are there any New Yorkers in town? The Slavic, Hebraic and Italian types predominate where once Irish, German and American ruled. The Japanese and Chinese are bound to come, and then what a composite face will be ours.

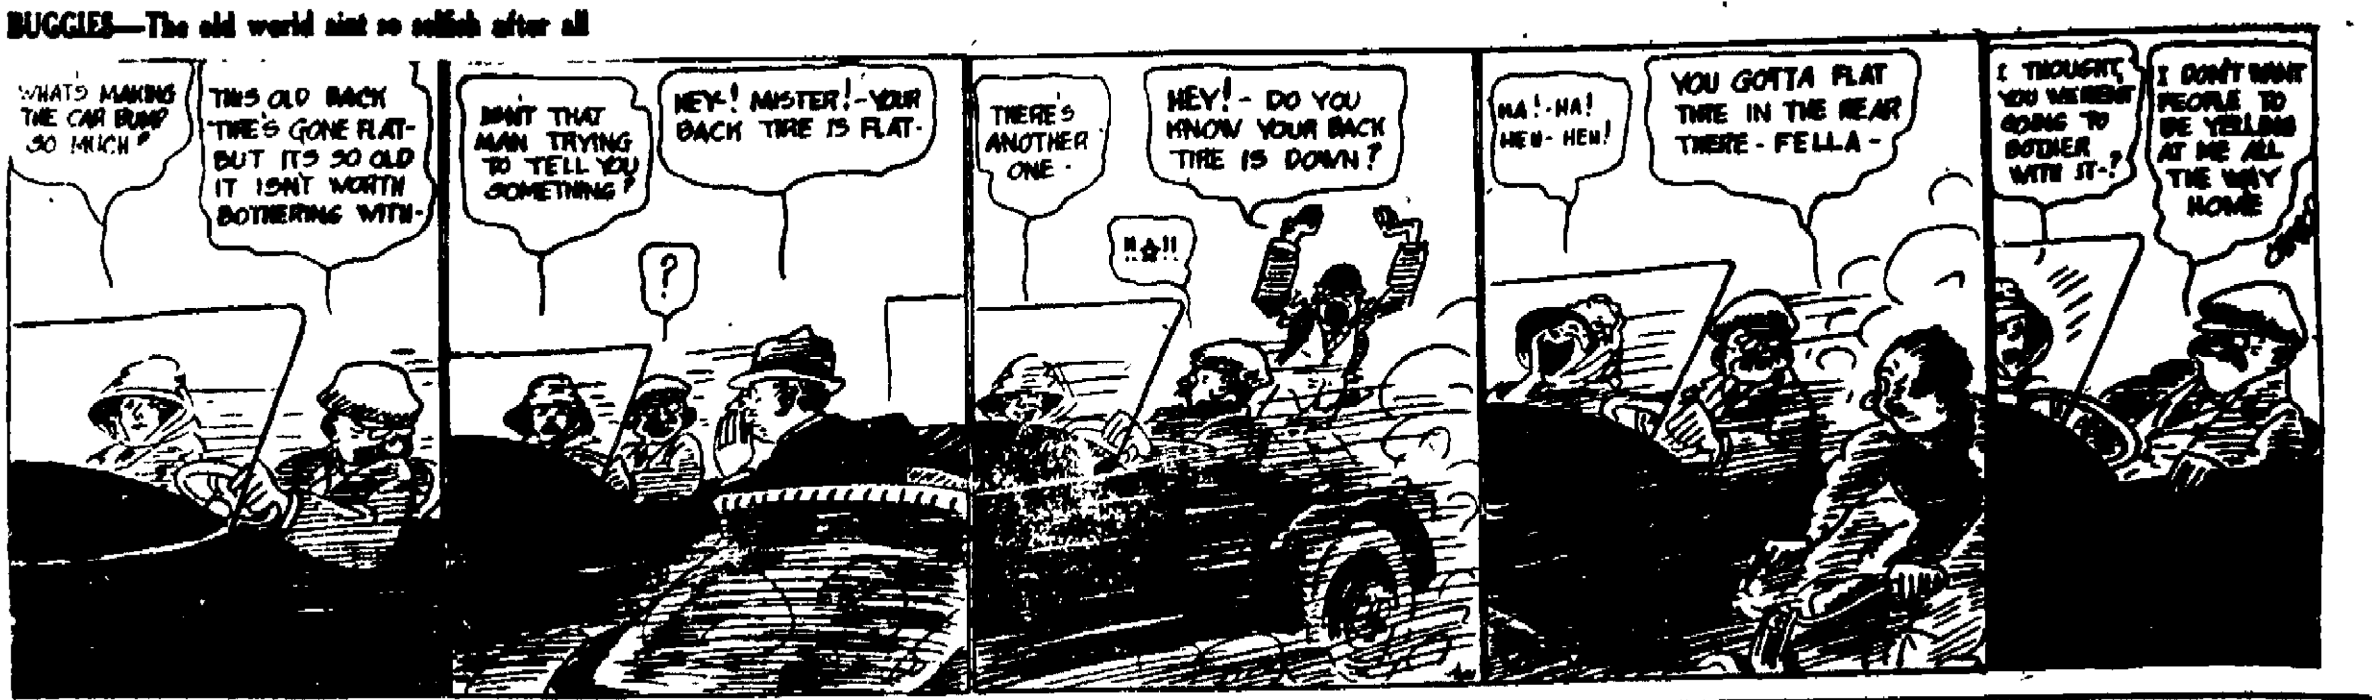

Changing Colors of Gems.

Experiments have proved that it is possible to change the color of certain precious and semi-precious stones by exposing them to the action of radium. A scientist put a number of sapphires of different kinds into a bag that contained a small quantity of radium. A month later the white sapphires had become yellow, the blue sapphires, green; the wine-colored sapphires, red, and the dark blue sapphires, violet.

Had to Wait.

One day as Uncle Tom was visiting Dorothy's home he asked her when she was going to go to school. Dorothy answered: "I will go to school when my hair will be as long as my sisters' are."

GAS BUGGIES—The old world aint so selfish after all

Daddy's Evening Fairy Tale

MARY GRAHAM BONNER

MIRIAM'S OLD CLOTHES.

Miriam did feel the jeers and the snickers and the whisperings of the other little girls in school. Oh, yes, she knew when they got off in the corner of the cloak room that they were talking about the patch in the back of her coat and the old worn shoes she wore and the sailor suit which shone—not with brightness, but with old age.

Often Miriam wished to be a bird. Birds never had their clothes patched. Birds moulted, it was true, but they never wore patches, and after the moulting season was over they were garbed so trimly and so smartly.

After her moulting season was over—after her clothes had proved by every look and sign that they were so very old—she did not come forth in new, smart, pretty things. Oh, no, she and the birds did not act alike in the least!

But it was hard in school—there was no mistake about it. Grown-ups always thought children were sweet, kind little creatures—unless of course they told "stories" and ate candy when they were forbidden it.

Miriam knew differently. She knew that there were other things children could do besides being disobedient. They could be cruel. Oh yes, they could tease and make fun and snicker and stare and it was cruel—that was the truth!

Wherever she was it went with her. It was worse than a horrible shadow. It was something real and something from which she could not escape. The part that hurt most was that her family had said a great deal about not being able to afford anything this spring, but they didn't know that she too had been suffering. They didn't know it was hard for a little girl in school.

It was one Sunday night when she was going to bed that her feelings seemed almost unbearable. She put her clothes on the old blue chair as she always did the night before—then she could dress so much more quickly in the morning and also have that much more time for pleasant sleep!

And as she looked at her clothes she felt angry—hot with anger. How she hated that old sailor hat and those old shoes which simply refused to be covered with blacking in a way to hide the shabbiness. How she hated them all. In the morning again would begin those looks toward her—those looks which said quite plainly that they wondered if she were never going to have anything new to wear!

As her eyes filled with tears at the thought of the next day, she heard her mother and her father talking. She had been a long, long time in her room. They had evidently thought she was sound asleep, for though their voices were low she could hear them.

"I can't help it," her mother was saying, "I know I have done the right thing, and I wouldn't have done anything else, but I feel so sorry for Miriam that I just can hardly bear seeing the child go off to school in the mornings in her old clothes.

"Children haven't changed since my day and I can remember that children were not always kindly about such things."

And then came her father's voice: "But you know, dear," he said, "if we hadn't had that money in the savings bank we wouldn't have dreamed of suggesting to the doctor that you take baby down South. And you know he said that saved her life."

"Oh, I know," her mother answered. "It was luck that I hadn't spent that money before on a new outfit for Miriam and for the painting of the house, and those repairs, as I had planned. But it is hard for little Miriam to have to suffer." And her mother's voice ended in a sob.

Miriam closed her door very quietly. She couldn't bear to hear any more. But she looked at the old shabby clothes on the chair. Then she went over to them and buried her head in the old shabby sailor suit.

"Dear old clothes," she sobbed, "you've saved baby's life—and mother does care—oh, yes, mother cares like anything—for us too! But just think, clothes, if I hadn't had you but had had newer ones baby might not have been alive now. I guess you're my friends, and I won't care who makes fun of you."

And somehow, somehow, when Miriam showed how little she cared for the snickers and the whisperings and the giggles—they all stopped, for there was no fun in teasing someone who paid no attention to it!

FOR THOSE WHO LIKE OATMEAL

For wholesome digestible dishes try some of the following:

Scotch Tea Cakes.—Beat two eggs until light, add one cupful of sugar, beating well; then add one-half teaspoonful of salt, two cupfuls of oatmeal, one teaspoonful of melted butter and a few drops of vanilla. Beat well and drop from a spoon on well greased baking sheets. Bake twelve minutes and cool in the pan

Oatmeal Bread.—Take one and one-half cupfuls of rolled oats, place in two cupfuls of warm water. Dissolve one yeast cake in one-third of a cupful of lukewarm water, two tablespoonfuls of lard and one and one-half cupfuls of flour; add yeast and one teaspoonful of salt. Beat well and let rise until light. Add two tablespoonfuls of sugar and one cupful of chopped nuts, and flour to knead lightly. Let rise one hour, make into two loaves. Let rise again and bake forty-five minutes in a moderate oven. If started early the bread will be done at noon. The temperature must be looked after—in caring for bread. Keep warm and well covered

Oatmeal Macaroons.—Take four cupfuls of rolled oats, one cupful of melted butter, one cupful of grated cocoanut, one teaspoonful of soda, two cupfuls of brown sugar, two eggs, two cupfuls of flour, one half teaspoonful of baking powder, one half teaspoonful of salt. Mix and drop from spoon on well greased tins. Bake twelve to fifteen minutes in a slow oven. This amount makes sixty.

Crispy Cakes.—Mix one-half cupful of hot milk with one-half cupful of brown sugar, add one teaspoonful of lemon juice and one cupful of rolled oats, one-half teaspoonful of salt. Add enough graham flour to make a soft dough. Roll thin, cut in desired shape and bake in a moderate oven.

There is no bread which takes the place of home-made bread, and in a large family the bread mixer is one of the greatest aids to bread making

LOTS DOING AT THE HIGH SCHOOL

Regents Examinations Next Week Eclipse Everything Else—Plays And Conservation Lecture Coming.

The Senior class met Tuesday afternoon at the high school and several important topics were discussed In regard to the forthcoming Senior play, "The Admirable Crichton." Miss Carter attended the meeting and submitted a plan by which the selection of the cast will be squarely arrived at.

The Senior class colors will be changed to orange and black as the banner and he colors of last year's Junior class did not meet the approval of the class. A new banner will be designed. President Muller appointed a committee consisting of Fred Ehnes, chairman, Senchen Barmann, Eleanor Readin, Florence Henry and Richard Gruver, to provide the class with this new emblem. Fred Ehnes, the school artist, has submitted three designs.

The Seniors got to be a veritable crowd of "tea-hounds" in their final year and as a result plans for a senior social are under way. Miss Ethel Schwab, class secretary, projected a plan by which the class should enter the "Judge" contest of smiling faces, for which a 500 dollar prize is given to the winner of this contest for the highest number of smiling faces offered. It was proposed that as admission a certain number of smiling faces shall be given. The "tea-hound" committee consists of Ethel Schwab, chairman, Mary Swart, Anne Byrne, Tom Rowland and Robert Case.

The Varsity second debating team has been chosen and some lively language will be swapped when the first and second teams debate. The team stands: Le Van Haver, leader; Frederick Schroeder, Richard Gruver, and Thielpape, alternate.

Mr. Spaulding is persistently drilling his "chorus" girls in preparation for the presentation of his operetta, "Yanki San."

A short program was offered by three Seniors in Friday morning's chapel exercises. Miss Eleanor Boyle was the "leading lady" with a very good recitation of "The House by the Side of the Road," by Samuel Walter Foss. The second speaker was "Chief" John Tremper. He gave "Washington's Farewell Address,' supplemented by an excellent introduction originally composed Miss Vera Barnum delivered admirably well two of Joice Kilmey's poems "Roofs," and "Trees." This is the last program that will be given by the students until after the resumption of scholastic duties, as next week features an exciting drama, "Regents Examinations," released by the State Educational Department.

"The Trials of a Freshman" will be presented Monday week to the grammar school graduates who enter high school.

The Conservationist Club is presenting a unique lecture to the nature-loving Kingstonians next Friday evening at 8 o'clock when Mr. Mahoney of the New York State Conservation Commission will discourse on "Fish and Game, Their Conservation and Importance to Man." President Clarence Snyder and a committee chosen by him have the program in charge. Dr. Boerker, of the faculty who is an authority upon conservation and forestry, declared that his experience has been that while people enjoy the privileges of hunting and fishing they accept the attempts of the conservationists to prevent waste as an insolent annoyance and "joy-killing" interference. But the real incentive to conservation is the regulation in the indulgence of these privileges and an equable supply of wild game at all times.

This lecture will prove valuable to the in-coming freshmen in its relation to their study of biology a study that is required of every first year student.

Due to the efforts of the local Conservationist Club no admission will be charged to this entertainment.

The basketball schedule which was recently announced for the boys' Varsity is incorrect in several places as several changes had to be made after the schedule was printed The following corrections should be noted.

January 14, K. H. S. at Poughkeepsie (No game January 13).

January 27, Poughkeepsie at Kingston.

March 10, open.

This afternoon the two K. H. S basketball teams were aligned against representative teams of Poughkeepsie High Schcool.

The Midgets played the boys' Freshmen team while the Varsity engaged the P. H. S. Varsity squad.

Floyd Berger of the local Varsity is probably out of the line-up for the season due to an accident to his left knee in practice.

Mr Woodard took the following men with him: Midgets—Stumpf, Dederick. Hasbrouck, Scheffel. Brown, Warren, Maroney. Varsity—Dressel, Rowland, Schmidt, Bott, Anderson, MacFadden, F. Corregan.

The Varsity girls also played the Newburgh High School girls here today on the Y. M. C. A. court.

The last report card period for the term has closed and the cards were distributed Friday.

There will be no regular sessions of school next week, and unless students have important business which necessitates their presence at school Mr. Lewis requests that they treat the "shut-down" as a vacation and keep away from the building

The local team lost a hard-fought contest Friday evening at the Amsterdam court, coming out on the small end of a 30 to 27 tally with the team representing that city.

Kingston with its best lineup, was in good form and led at half time with a two-point lead. Score 17 to 15. Riconda was the outstanding player of the game, having fifteen points to his credit. He was followed closely by Borgman with thirteen points. Foul shooting again won the game. Forty-three fouls were called on the locals, the upstaters making good twenty-two. Twenty-six were called on Amsterdam, Kingston caging fifteen. Solodar was the referee.

CLINTON CHAPTER INSTALLS OFFICERS

Masonic Hall, Wall street, was filled Friday night with members of Clinton Chapter, No. 445, Order of the Eastern Star, and their guests, the occasion being the installation of the recently elected and appointed officers of the chapter. The officers installed were: Mrs. Edna Brown, worthy matron; Myron Styles, worthy patron; Mrs. Lillian Marchant, associate matron; Miss Edna Schepmoes, conductress; Mrs. Bertha Baylor, associate conductress; Mrs. Eleanor Cole, historian; Mrs. Charlotte Morris, warder; Miss Gaidys Craw, Adah; Mrs. Elizabeth O. Leith, Ruth; Mrs. Lucy Rogers, Esther; Mrs. Freida Murray, Martha; Mrs. Maude G. Christian, Electa; John Hein, sentinel.

Worthy Patron Myron Styles, who was re-elected to that office at the recent annual meeting, acted as installing officer, assisted by Mrs. Gertrude Davis, acting as grand marshal, Mrs. Flora Ostrander acting as assistant grand marshal, Miss Grace V. Merritt acting as grand chaplain.

On behalf of the chapter, Mrs. Brown, the newly installed matron, presented Mrs. Davis, the retiring matron, with a beautiful jeweled chapter pin. She was also presented with a magnificent bouquet of flowers by her husband, A. A. Davis, and with a handsome set of cut glass sherbet glasses by her retiring officers. The presentations were received by Mrs. Davis with appropriate addresses.

During the evening Mrs. Alice Evans Norwood was installed as district deputy grand matron of the Ulster-Greene county district, as she was too ill to be installed at the time of the meeting of the grand chapter in New York city in October.

Mrs. Sam Mann rendered several solos during the evening which were thoroughly appreciated. After the business session a social hour was enjoyed and refreshments were served.

The Order of United Commercial Travelers of America is not an insurance company. It is a fraternity of over 100,000 Commercial Travelers, City Salesmen, House Salesmen, Sales Managers and Merchandise Brokers in the Wholesale Trade, providing accident insurance at cost to its members and affording them other and more desirable benefits. CONGRESS TO PASS ON FORD'S OFFER

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Washington, Jan. 14.—Henry Ford, America's billionaire automobile king, whose offer to take over and operate the government's Muscle Shoals nitrate plant in Alabama, failed to meet full administration approval, still is in Washington today and may remain for several days, he said.

The responsibility of making a decision in the Ford offer will be passed along to congress. Secretary of War Weeks said today he would put the offer in contract form and send it along with the other bid that had been made for the plant, putting it squarely up to congress to make a selection or reject the lot of them as congress sees fit.

ANOTHER ITALIAN BANK SUSPENDS

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

London, Jan. 14.—The Catholic Bank of Palermo suspended today according to a Central News dispatch from Rome.

Italy is at present undergoing a financial panic, although the government is taking steps to protect financial interests and the public's invested money. A number of financial and business concerns have asked the Italian government for a moratorium to escape immediate payment of debts. The chief incident was the recent suspension of the Benca Italiana Di Aconto at Rome.

KINGSTON, N. Y., JAN. 14, 1922.

OTHER PEOPLE'S MONEY.

The annual financial statement of the Automobile Club of Ulster County is printed in another column of The Freeman today. Other statements from other organizations that publicly solicit membership fees or donations will follow, or the reason assigned by the officers for declining to furnish them will be given. Not only are those who contribute the funds for these various organizations entitled to know in detail how their money is spent, but outsiders cannot intelligently determine whether or not to contribute unless they have definite information on this point. The mere declaration that "the cause is a worthy one" will no longer suffice. Many a worthy cause has served as a host—if that is the correct medical term—for parasites or barnacles. With the facts known, the public can and will discriminate wisely and by withholding its money from the unworthy will be the better enabled to support the worthy.

The report of the Automobile Club speaks for itself.

KINGSTON'S FIRE LOSS.

Kingston's fire loss during 1921 amounted to $84,894.51, according to the annual report of Fire Chief Chipp to the board of fire commissioners, but over half of this amount was due to the fire at the Manor Lake Farm barns, which caused a loss of $51,571.00. In 1920 the fire loss in Kingston was about $50,000. It will be seen by this that just the one big fire of 1921 caused a larger fire loss than all of the fires of the preceding year.

Kingston's fire loss has been gradually dropping since the inauguration of the partially paid fire department, which was inaugurated when Walter P. Crane, the present mayor, was serving his first term as head of the city government.

With the installation of the partially paid department there was inaugurated the system of daily inspections by members of the paid department of the business houses of the city. There is no question but that this system of inspections has had much to do with the reduction in fire losses.

Kingston's fire department has proven itself efficient, and it has had much to do with the reduction in insurance rates. This year the fire alarm system, which has been located in the tower room at the city hall, will be installed in a new building which is now in course of construction on East O'Reilly street, adjoining the Central Fire Station.

From time to time there has been added motor equipment to the fire department, until at the present time the entire paid department is motorized. The day of the horse-drawn fire apparatus is past, and with modern equipment the fire department has been enabled to respond to the fire alarm more quickly, and to do more efficient work as is plainly shown by the gradual reduction in the fire losses in Kingston.

It is expected, with the removal of the fire alarm system to its new building, that there will be a further reduction in insurance rates. The small fire loss in Kingston the past few years would seem to warrant a reduction in the rates.

The burglary insurance losses for 1921 were 15 to 20 per cent greater than in the previous year. Not a bad advertisement for bank vault boxes.

The treasury sends out the good news that the funded public debt was reduced $180,000,000 during the last half of 1921 and that the floating debt was reduced nearly half a billion dollars.

A German chemist claims that he can produce "just as good" synthetic coal to cost only half as much as the genuine. All of us except our coal barons will hope that he is not deceived.

"The close observation of the methods and manners of the American statesman is inspiring," said one of the pages at the dinner given by Vice-President Coolidge. The distant observer is not always so enthusiastic.

The Belgians will be sorry to part with Brand Whitlock. During the World War they prayed for "the King, the Cardinal and the Minister"—the last named, Mr. Whitlock, having endeared himself to all classes by what he did for German-trodden Belgium.

It looks as if the urban lines are behind the cross-country railroads. A recent accident on the "elevated" in New York brought out the fact that one of the wooden cars wrecked was 42 years old, that others in use were 30 and 40 years old, and that there was not a wooden car less than 18 years old.

What do you want to know about Nature Subjects? Send any questions of general interest to the Nature Notes Department of this paper. Look for answers in this column.

Can You Answer These Questions?

1. What is canary seed?
2. Is the bite of the stable fly dangerous?
3. Are fishes' back-bones jointed? I noticed that in cooked fish sometimes the spine seems like a rod, and in other fishes it comes apart?

Answers in Monday's Nature Notes.

Answers to Previous Questions.

1. What do peacocks eat?

In the wild state, pretty much everything that their locality happens to afford. Insects, worms, reptiles, flesh, fish, grain, etc., are taken. They are by nature birds of jungle and mountain, also of open ground, and their diet would vary with the possibilities of the place and season

2. Can I poison weasels that are robbing my hen-house?

We suggest the method used on some of the big game farms, where quail, grouse, etc., are propagated. Get some dead English sparrows or pigeons, (or even chicken heads) for bait, and making a neat incision into the breast, slip in as much powdered strychnine as a small pen-knife tip will take up It is well to wear gloves, to protect any scent from the hands. Place the bigger bait on the ground, and the sparrows can be impaled on twigs about 8 inches up Of course this is dangerous for any domestic animals nearby.

3. Are salmon trout a distinct species of fish?

"Salmon trout" is a term very loosely used to denote almost any one of half a dozen salmon and trout. Pink flesh in a trout often gives the specimen the name of "salmon" where there is nothing except the color to warrant such a name. This pinkness comes from the food. A diet of fresh water shrimp will turn the flesh pink, and a curious result is that pike that feed extensively on trout fed on shrimp, in their turn develop pink flesh.

UNDERNEATH THE CITY HALL DOME

Talking of Zero Weather Hear How One Man Lost His Sweetheart, Who Objected To Cuss Words—Cupid Had Slack Year—No "Flavor Bug" Here.

"And you call this cold weather," remarked one of those who applied for lodging for the night at the city hall lockup, "you should have been with me several winters ago."

"How's that?" asked several of the other lodgers as they huddled closer to the radiator, which was piping hot.

"I'll never forget how Sam Slunger lost his sweetheart, and all on account of the intense cold," continued the first lodger, as he took up his cold weather tale, "he had been keeping steady company with Ruth Erling for some time. Ruth was one of those pure minded girls that had decided objections to a man even saying 'damn it.'

"One night that winter Sam and I had been out rabbit hunting and as the weather grew steadily colder we headed for the Erling home, knowing that we would be welcome to spend the balance of the night there. As we plodded through the wood to the Erling home the temperature gradually kept dropping until it grew so cold that even our breath began to freeze.

"Suddenly Sam stumbled over a root of a tree and plunged into a bank of snow As he picked himself up the air was fairly blue with the language he used, and whether you believe it or not his entire lower face became encased in ice that formed from his breath, until even if he did continue talking I could not hear a word he said.

"We finally got to the Erling home and found a red hot fire in the fireplace. That fire felt good. As the ice began to thaw from Sam's face the room became filled with the sound of Sam's voice, and for a varied collection of curse words I have never heard Sam's vocabulary equalled.

"Yes sir the sound of Sam's voice had become enmeshed and held fast in the ice, and while I have often heard canned music I can truthfully say I had never heard of iced music before.

"While the concert was at its height Ruth suddenly entered the room. She threw up her hands in horror as she heard Sam's voice cussing, and hurrying to his side she implored him to stop, but poor Sam could no more shut off that concert than he could fly, and not until the last of the ice had melted and released the imprisoned sound of his voice did the concert suddenly cease.

"Oh boy, but I am telling you that Ruth fairly lashed Sam with her words of condemnation and flung herself out of the room throwing back over her shoulder, 'and I tell you right now Sam Slunger that I never will marry a man who cusses like you do,' and she kept her word."

Cupid Had Slack Season.

The year 1921 was a slack season in the matrimonial market in Kingston for City Clerk Doremus only issued 273 marriage licenses that year. The average number issued in other years was one a day, or over 300 licenses for the year.

So far this year, but three licenses have been isued to marry by the city clerk.

No "Flavor Bug" Here.

Superintendent Harrison of the water department had been reading with much interest about the "flavor bug" in New York city's water supply that is causing qualms among the water consumers of the big city. He stated this morning that while the "flavor bug" may have appeared in the city reservoirs yet it had not developed into such numbers as to make its presence tasted.

ON-A-JOB, OFF-A-JOB JIM!

Being a Story

Of how Jim got on a job and why he got off it again.

"The snow had begun in the gleaming and busily all the night, had been heaping field and highway with a silence deep and white." When Jim looked out of his window the next morning, he realized that skating was over for a while. He could make the best of the snow however, and turn out several jobs for himself.

First was shoveling. He wondered if he would try for a job with the city, but decided that he would have more fun and less hard digging by working for himself, in free lance fashion. He started off with a shovel over his shoulder, going from house to house, in search of work. The storm was not over, but he hoped that there would be some people who would like to keep their sidewalks cleared from the beginning.

He succeeded in keeping busy all day, and as the storm continued, he expected more business the next day. He was right. The air cleared during the night, and in the morning, Jim looked out upon a sparkling snowy world. Sleighs were jingling merrily down the street. He heard the clatter of a shovel down below, and pulled on his clothes quickly to join the workers.

There was a house on the next street that had always interested Jim. It was inhabited, but no one seemed to know by whom. As Jim passed by the place, about noon, it seemed buried in the silent snowbanks. No footmarks showed that its inhabitants had awakened to activity. Jim felt a keen desire to dig them out of their solitude, and approached the door to make his request.

He heard the bell jangle through the rooms. No one opened the door. He rang again, and was about to turn away in disgust, when he heard a muffled sound—he could have swore it was a groan. Listening with ear to keyhole, he strained his hearing. Surely he was making no mistake. The groans were weak but unmistakably human.

Jim determined to learn more of the mystery. He turned the knob and pushed the door, but it would not open. He tried several of his own keys in the lock, with no satisfactory results. For a moment, he considered going for a policeman, but fearing that he might be delayed and thus no use to the party inside, he determined to get into the house and send for the police later. He tried a window close by, and was at once successful in opening it. He was inside the room in a twinkling, and his first sensation was one of coldness. The room was icy, with a penetrating dampness that caused him to shiver. On the floor, when his eyes became accustomed to the dull night, he saw the body of a man.

Near by was a telephone, and Jim's first instinct was to call the nearest doctor. Then he pulled the man on to the bed in the next room and began massaging the still, blue limbs. He had no idea if the man were alive or not. He seemed frozen to death. But after the doctor had arrived and the two men had worked over the stranger, signs of returning vitality were apparent.

When the stranger was restored fully to consciousness, he explained his predicament. "Had a heart attack. Knew it was coming on and tried to get to the phone, but must have fallen unconscious before I quite reached it. Fires went out. You say I was being frozen to death?"

"A few more hours and we would have had to give you up. But you are all right now."

"Thanks to this young man," the stranger took Jim's hand in his, "Young lad, what can I do for you?"

"Let me shovel your sidewalk," returned Jim.

Bristol of Interest to America.

Few cities in England have more claims to the attention of the United States than the ancient town of Bristol. It was Bristol that gave the world the Cabots, those daring sailors who discovered the mainland of America, and thus destroyed the belief that beyond the West Indies were untold miles of open sea and the end of the world. Bristol is one of the oldest cities in England. It having been founded by Caesar at the time the Romans swept down on the island and declared it a province of the Imperial city. A great wall was built about the place, and portions of it still stand, mute evidence through the centuries of the thoroughness and strength of Roman empire building.

Praise for the Mango.

The secretary of the chamber of commerce in Mexico City says that nobody knows the real Mexico until he has eaten a ripe mango in Mexico. And, of course, you can't eat a ripe mango anywhere else because a ripe mango cannot be moved far. A ripe mango, according to him, is the most luscious, juicy and delicious fruit in the world, and the correct way to eat it is to get in a state of nature in a park or orchard or forest, or by the seashore, and then go to the nut with the fruit. Enough of the juice and meat will get inside to make you deliriously happy, and then you borrow an ocean or something to wash the juice off the exterior, before it becomes sirup. If you have once eaten a ripe mango in Mexico you will understand the low estimate in which the natives hold gold and silver and precious stones and all riches of pale civilization.—Chicago Daily News.

Straw Put to Many Uses.

Sotol straw, in use by the Mexicans for thatching, is not such poor material for the purpose so far as weather proofing goes. The sotol plant grows on the high dry hills and mountains in the upper border region. The fiber of the leaves and stalk is very strong and tough. When these are pounded out and used several layers thick, they make an impenetrable roof, which keeps out rain and sun alike. The plant is often used for making furniture and for carving cutlery. There are goat herders on western ranches whose houses are thatched and walled with the material, whose furniture is made of it and whose spoons and forks even are carved from it. Lacking sotol, the Mexicans often use sticks, broomweed or even cornstalks in the place of straw.

GIVES CASE TO DIST. ATTORNEY

Coroner Tucker Holds Moses Schoonmaker of Walden for Shooting of Fred Harding of Ganaghote in Walden When the Latter Attempted to Enter His Home.

Moses Schoonmaker of Walden, who shot and killed Fred Harding of Ganaghote, of the town of Gardiner, on the porch of his home on Sunday morning, was held to await the action of the district attorney before the grand jury, by Coroner John F. Tucker, at the close of an investigation conducted in the office of Assistant District Attorney Robert H. Hume in the Masonic building in Walden Thursday evening.

Coroner Tucker in his decision states "While the testimony taken in the case does not point to any criminal intent on the part of Schoonmaker, who in self defense claims he was protecting his home from the acts of a 'bad man,' as he puts it himself, there was no evidence that any overt act in this direction was attempted by the man Harding. As the life of a human being was sacrificed through the action of Moses Schoonmaker, the case is one that cannot be passed by as justifiable or in self defense, therefore the entire matter will be placed in the hands of the district attorney for presentation to the grand jury."

A CHURCH OF SERVICE

In Chicago, Pastor of Which is Former Kingstonian.

The Rev. Johnston Myers, formerly of Kingston, is now pastor of the Greater Immanuel Church at Chicago, Ill. Undoubtedly.

"How did he get rich?" "I haven't exact information concerning him, but I'll venture the statement that he probably made most of his money by minding his own business."

The Rundown May Run Up in Health

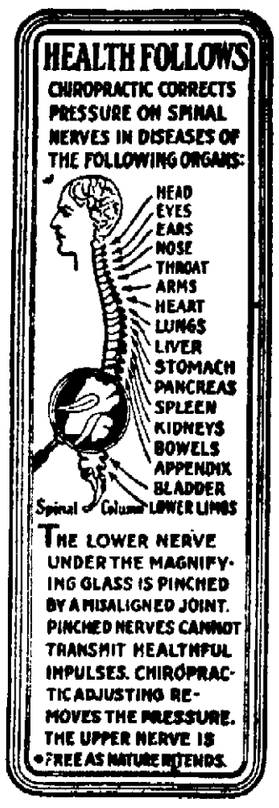

Health Talk No. 55.
By Froude & MacKinnon

Nervy, doctor advised seven days of rest for a patient who wanted to get well and strong, and the patient refused the rest saying seven days would "make one weak."

A run down physical condition is the invariable result of a chronic weakness. Constant pain or dragging weakness will rob the sufferer of vitality. Quite often the appearance is unchanged but the sufferer knows a difference.

Ordinarily when a man finds himself in such a condition, the family physician advises a vacation. The vacation will help, perhaps, if the sufferer is taking chiropractic spinal adjustments to remove the cause of his weakness. Rest and adjustments will restore, but rest alone will only postpone another breakdown.

Chiropractic means "done by hand." The true chiropractor adjusts the joints of the backbone to restore alignment and remove nerve pressure. He needs and uses nothing but his bare hands.

BREAKDOWN CAUSE IS REMOVED—HEALTH FOLLOWS

"I was afflicted with what was called tuberculosis of the hips for three years. I was in bed for six months on two different occasions. I was rundown in flesh, weak and pale and incapable of work. I was advised to try chiropractic. After three adjustments I was able to get up. I continued until about one year ago, and I have been well ever since. I cannot praise chiropractic enough." —Wilbur Lee, Chiropractic Research Bureau Statement No. 12821.

WHEN HEALTH BEGINS

When health begins depends on when you telephone 776 for an appointment. Consultation is without charge. Our invariable rule is never to accept a case that we are not confident we can benefit.

We are graduates of the Universal and Palmer Schools of Davenport, Iowa—the world's foremost chiropractic colleges.

The system of painless adjusting originated by us is acknowledged far superior to any method heretofore in use.

In loving memory of our beloved daughter, Lucy A. Steen, who entered into rest three years today, January 14, 1919.

With broken hearts of sorrow,
Three years ago today
We watched the one we loved so dearly
Silently pass away.

No one knows the silent heartache,
Only those who have least can tell
Of the grief that is borne in silence
For the daughter we loved so well.

Days are passing into years
Since the one you went away,
But they do not dry our tears
Nor those sadder memories stay.

Time may help us to endure
What has always seemed so hard.
Our broken hearts have no cure
Till we meet you with our Lord.

BUSINESS OPPORTUNITIES.

WANTED—BUSINESS MAN to take over the sale of a nationally advertised product used in every home; must be financially responsible; one preferred who has merchandise, autos, wash machines and similar products on time payments; must be a salesman, a good organizer and have initiative as well as vision; opportunity to make big money. Under Powerful Protection.

On a transcontinental Santa Fe train we saw two interesting kiddies, a boy of three and a girl of six, who were bound from Albuquerque, N. M., to Omaha. The little girl wore a stout manila envelope pinned to her frock, with the ticket inclosed. On the outside of the envelope were their names, parents' names and destination, and some few odd characters, which showed they were children of a member of one of the world's mightiest fraternities. Many trainmen belong to it, and in every car full of people you will see several more who are entitled to wear it but don't. These symbols would have carried the children from Uz to Timbuctoo, or anywhere in the civilized world, in as absolute safety as men could furnish, and in every car they met men who would have risked their lives for them if necessary.—Kingston Journal.

English Lenten Customs.

Though many ancient customs are rapidly disappearing in England, several old and quaint usages of the Lenten period are still preserved. Mid-Lent Sunday, sometimes called "Mothering Sunday," is kept as a kind of festival in various sections. The term "Mothering Sunday" arose from the country custom of allowing lads and lassies in service away from home to take the day off in order that they might visit their mothers. It was usual for such young people to carry a cake as a present to the mother, but nowadays the present is generally some inexpensive purchased article of no particular significance. In Shropshire, however, not only do they still take a simnel cake, as of old, but also the first violets of the year, which gives rise to the local saying, "who goes a-mothering finds violets in the lane."

Buddhist Priests Tame Fish.

There is a certain bend of a certain river in Burma, where the fish are venerated, tamed, treated as pets and called to meals by priests. Just why this particular bend of this special river should be so signally set apart is not known, but as these priests are Buddhists there is perhaps a connection between this favoritism and the fact that in every land where Buddhism is the faith, there are certain places dedicated to Buddha, and strange superstitions woven about the place. These fish are a species of catfish which grow to a large size, and they swim to the bank when called. The priests not only feed the fish, but they pet them as we do a dog or a cat. Some are so tame they do not even squirm in fright when they are picked out of the water and gently handled.

Libraries in History.

Harvard college led the way in America to the first library. This institution was established in 1638. Sixty years later, in 1700, a public library was founded in New York city. The following year the Yale library was founded and in 1781 Benjamin Franklin started a subscription library in Philadelphia, the first of its kind in America. The United States library, now called the library of congress, was established in 1800, but in 1814 it was burned by the British. It was rebuilt and now contains nearly 2,000,000 volumes, and is one of the finest in the world. As far back as 540 B. C., the first public library known to the world was founded at Athens. England's first library was established at St. Andrew's in 1411.—Chicago Journal.

Have Abject Belief in Fate.

In the Koran is found the idea that on the brow of every human being are inscribed invisible characters which decree the events of his life and his appointed time. The first is termed "Kismet," the second "Edjel." From this belief springs unquestioned submission to the decrees of fate. Death is considered by Moslems terrible only in the abstract and when viewed from a distance. In polite society it is never mentioned save under some poetical name. "Cupbearer of the sphere" is one of the more common phrases. And never is it mentioned except when prefaced by the words "Far be it from you."

Peacock Feathers Disliked.

Peacock feathers are looked upon as unlucky in many countries. Their mere possession is reputed to be a harbinger of misfortune to the owner. Every kind of loss will have to be sustained by the occupiers of the house they adorn, including illness and death, and many country people, even now, would be horrified if any one were to bring under a roof one or more of these feathers. It is further said that children will never be healthy in rooms adorned with these iridescent plumes, and that it is the most unlucky thing in the world to give as a plaything to the youngsters.

That Horrid Word Again.

"What's the matter?" cried Mrs. Jones when Bobby came running into the house in tears, dragging his little tin sword behind him and rubbing the seat of his trousers. "I thought you were having such a good time playing soldier." "We were," sobbed Bobby, "and I was Sheridan, and papa heard me."—American Legion Weekly.

A Discreet Forbearance.

"Hiram," said Mrs. Corntossel, "you don't talk politics as much as you used to." "Nope," replied her husband, "we've elected our public officials. Public officials are servants of the people, an' my experience is that when you've got a good hand anxious to settle down to work it's a bad plan to worry him with idle conversation."

Vast Wealth in City Street.

The Chandni Chowk, or "Silver street," is the main bazaar of Delhi, and one of the richest streets in the world. Many of its shops are occupied by jewelers, whose hoards of precious stones represent fabulous sums.

No Timbering in This Mine.

The world's northernmost coal mine is in Spitsbergen, well within the Arctic circle. It lies under a depth of a thousand feet of solidly frozen earth. The temperature in the rooms is 7 degrees Fahrenheit, 25 degrees below freezing, the year round, and, naturally, there is no pumping. The frozen roof holds and there is no timbering. The mine employs two hundred to three hundred men, and there is said to be a constant waiting list of one thousand. The heating value of the coal is 14,373 B. T. U., and 80,000 tons were produced in 1919. The mine is operated by American methods and with American machinery, having been purchased in 1904 by a Mr. Longyear of Boston, and later sold at a handsome profit to a Norwegian firm.—From the Compressed Air Magazine (N. Y.).

Poet Laureateship of England.

The poet laureateship of England has been an office of high honor since the days of Geoffrey Chaucer, but it was not until the reign of James I that a royal patent was granted by which the poet laureate became an officer of the crown at a salary of about $500 a year, with a tierce of canary from the royal cellars as perquisite. Ben Jonson was the first poet laureate under James' patent (1619-1637), but many "Versificators," "Versifers" and "Laureates" had preceded him, among them being John Gower, the author of "Confessio Amantis," and Edmund Spenser, who was, however, styled "Court Poet." In 79 years, from 1813 to 1892, the post was filled by Southey, Wordsworth and the late Lord Tennyson.

Turks Without Fear of Death.

One of the reasons the Turks used to be such good soldiers was because contempt for life is the essence of the faith for which they fought. "Divinely calm" are words that have been employed to describe the profound and complete resignation to the will of Allah which is an integral part of the Mohammedan faith. The pious Mohammedan has ever present in his mind the end of earth and the beginning of life beyond. The Turk is said to consider himself as an individual camped in the world, as his nation has so long been camped in Europe. And he considers the joys of life only shadows in comparison with the everlasting delights which await him in paradise.

Swiss Buy American Cheese.

Talk about carrying coals to Newcastle! exclaims the Philadelphia Ledger. Pennsylvania is sending swiss cheese to Switzerland. Grove City is the place that made the record. Two carloads were shipped in 1920. It passed in Switzerland as the home-grown article—Schweiserkase of fame.

Grove city's dairy wonders do not end with the manufacture of "real" swiss cheese. They include roquefort cheese, too, exactly like the kind of which America customarily imports some $18,000,000 worth a year, except that Grove City's article is made from pure cow's milk and the French product is founded on the milk of goats.

Maintain Your Best Pace.

You are unfair to yourself when you limit your possibilities to the other fellow's pace. You are not bound to wear his handicap. It may be the courteous thing to go as slowly as he does, but that's merely a matter of condescension and doesn't represent your capacity. Let your own inner urge be the compelling force that keeps you to your best pace. You won't be happy dragging along when you should be speeding. Besides this, doing things at slow gait demands more energy than should be used for the operation. To do the work right you should be immersed in it so that you give your whole thought to the thing you do. The fact that every turn is a new challenge keeps you up to your best and assures your best effort. To see things being done that reflect skill and ability is the call that is answered by still better effort.—Grit.

Where Lincoln Was Going.

A characteristic story of Lincoln is retold by his biographer, the Rev. Dr. John Wesley Hill. In 1846, when Lincoln made his single-term race for congress, he was prevailed upon to attend a revival meeting conducted by the renowned evangelist, Peter Cartwright. The famous exhorter called on all desiring to go to heaven to stand up. All arose but Lincoln. Then he asked all to rise who did not want to go to hell. Lincoln remained still seated. "I am surprised," said Brother Cartwright, "to see Abe Lincoln sitting back there unmoved by these appeals. If Mr. Lincoln does not want to go to heaven and does not want to escape hell, perhaps he will tell us where he does want to go." Lincoln slowly arose and replied, "I am going to congress." And he went for one term, as per "gentleman's agreement."

Chivalrous Lion.

While a workman was oiling the sliding doors of two cages at the Zoological gardens, Regent's park, London, England, says a correspondent, a young lion slipped into the sleeping den of an old tigress. They attacked each other in the semi-darkness, before the lion, apparently discovered that his opponent was a female. He could have killed her with ease, as her claws were feeble and her teeth worn, yet presently both emerged in neighborly fashion from the sleeping den into the show cage in front. They were separated by the keeper but the tigress, although apparently little hurt, had been bitten deeply in the chest, and died next day from internal hemorrhage. The keeper declared that if the two animals had been of the same sex they would have fought to the bitter death in the sleeping den.

Grammatical Controversy.

The controversy as to the propriety of using "It is me" instead of "It is I" is several centuries old. It arose from the fact that from the earliest times there was in use in the languages of Europe two sounds that served to indicate the person speaking. In English they appear as "I" and "me," the older form of "I" being "Ic." In the vernacular of England both forms of the phrase are used, but "It is me" finds greater favor, if one may take literature as indicating preference. Notwithstanding the fact, the grammarians have arrayed themselves against it. Considered etymologically, the correct form is "It am I," and this is the way in which the phrase was used by Chaucer in "The Knightes Tale" lines 1463 and 1738.—Literary Digest.

Indians' Use of Oysters.

Long before the advent of the white settlers on the shores of America the Indian tribes living near the Atlantic coast subsisted to a large extent on oysters. In fact, many of the Indians of that period not only made commendable use of oysters at meal time, but they actually used the shells as coin of the realm. These commercially inclined redskins of by-gone centuries converted their oysters into a medium of exchange by drying and smoking them. They would then string them on twigs and carry them to the tribes living in the valleys between the mountains considerable distances from the coast, where they would be used in purchasing buffalo meat and hides and various other articles that were unobtainable along the coast.

Ants Make Biscuits.

According to recent studies of the common Mediterranean ant, the seeds which are collected are kept for a time dry and are eventually put out in the rain so that they begin to germinate. This has the advantage of bursting the hard seed-coats, and in some cases of starting processes of fermentation. At a certain stage, however, the ants kill the embryo plant by biting off the radicle or other parts and the seeds are dried again in the sun. According to Neger the dried seeds of some leguminous plants, for instance, are then taken back into the nest and chewed into dough. This is dried once again in the sun in the form of biscuits, which are eventually put into the cupboard.

Superstitions Concerning the Kiss.

The kiss is a part of numberless superstitions. The Germans believe a charm against lightning is effected by making three crosses before you and kissing the ground. The French kiss the cards before the game begins to bring luck in gambling. Pliny seriously advised a man suffering with toothache to kiss a mule to stop the pain. The Danes believe bad luck is turned away if you kiss the piece of bread you drop on the floor. They also believe it bad luck if the first person you meet in the morning is an old woman; nevertheless you can ward off the consequences by giving her a kiss.

In Appreciation.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Van Derzee and family wish to thank the relatives, friends and neighbors who during the illness and death of their beloved daughter Isabel helped so much to make the burden lighter and for the most beautiful floral tributes sent, expressing sympathy, also to Mrs. Rosaline Fitzgerald and Mrs. M. E. V. Hurt for the beautiful solos rendered, "Hark The Herald Angels Sing," as sung so feelingly and beautifully by Mrs. Fitzgerald had been the request of our dear child to have played just before she passed away.

We hereby gratefully acknowledge our heartfelt thanks.

MR. AND MRS. THOMAS VAN DERZEE AND FAMILY.

are something every one should possess. They are a very necessary protection from the glare of Old Sol's rays reflected from the bright snow. We have them both in smoke, blue and amber. We also have a fine line of field glasses, telescopes, opera glasses and all other things that help or increase the vision. For any optical need apply here.

THE OFFICE CAT

By Junius

Pome.

She wore a high-heeled pair of kicks,
Below a flossy pair of "knicks,"
Her eyes were dolled in amber rims,
And graceful were her nether limbs,
But woman's glory was still there,
Because she didn't bob her hair,
And showed, without the slightest fear
Her piquant, saucy, little ear.

"Hello, is this Main——?"

"Good morning doctor. I'm thinking of buying a new winter suit this week. Would you advise brown or a nice, soft blue serge?

"You don't approve of serge?

"I do hope so, doctor, but I have always and found lavender a very trying color. Still, I suppose you know best—

"And, oh, doctor, what are you prescribing in straw hats for winter this season?"

And so on, and so on, to the bitter end, will go the telephone conversation of the future if Friend Olga is satisfied.

DEC. FACTORY EMPLOYMENT ABOUT SAME AS NOVEMBER.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Albany, Jan. 14.—Employment among factory workers in the state of New York showed practically no change from November to December, according to the statement issued yesterday by the industrial commissioner, Henry D. Sayer, of the state department of labor. Increased employment continued to be reported in some industries as the result of the gradual lifting of the industrial depression. Seasonal change was the cause of increased and decreased employment in different industries, and labor troubles reduced the number of employes in a few industries.
